DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Luton (US 4,818,481).

Luton teaches an aluminum alloy comprising alloying elements selected from a group comprising Mg and other additives including Ti and Zr (column 6 lines 63-column 7 line 6), 0.1-0.5vol% aluminum oxy-nitrides (column 6 line 42, column 15 lines 22-23) which increase the strength of the aluminum matrix by at least 10% (column 6 lines 37-38). Luton teaches cryomilling in nitrogen and forming ox-nitrides in amounts that fall within the instant nitrogen range.

Luton does not specify the amounts of said additives. However, because Luton teaches the amount of aluminum matrix metal is preferably >90%, then the balance of said alloy would be said additives. Therefore, because Luton teaches an overlapping alloying ranges, it is held that Luton has created a prima facie case of obviousness of the presently claimed invention (MPEP 2144.05).

Response to Amendment

3. In the response filed on May 3, 2006 applicant submitted various arguments traversing the rejections of record. The ODP rejection has been overcome.
4. Applicant's argument that the present invention is allowable over the prior art of record because Luton teaches the total amount of oxy-nitrides present will be at least 10% has not been found persuasive. Luton teaches incorporating 0.1-0.5vol% aluminum oxy-nitrides (column 6 line 42, column 15 lines 22-23) which increase the strength of the aluminum matrix by at least 10% (column 6 lines 37-38). The examiner points out that the amount of refractory materials present in the instant alloy (and therefore held to be within "substantially free") is discussed in the specification at [0016], and the content of said refractory materials is preferably present in \leq 0.5vol%, which is met by the range taught by Luton.
5. Concerning the argument that the oxy-nitrides taught by Luton are excluded by the "consisting essentially of" language of independent claim 10, the transitional phrase "consisting essentially of" limits the scope of a claim to the specified materials or steps "and those that do not materially affect the basic and novel characteristic(s)" of the claimed invention. In re Herz, 537 F.2d 549, 551-52, 190 USPQ 461, 463 (CCPA 1976). The applicant has not shown that the addition of said oxy-nitrides would affect the basic and novel characteristic of said alloy.

Terminal Disclaimer

6. The terminal disclaimer filed on May 3, 2006 disclaiming the terminal portion of any patent granted on this application which would extend beyond the expiration date of 6,902,699 has been reviewed and is accepted. The terminal disclaimer has been recorded.

Conclusion

7. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
